Our Heritage

— And What I

We have inherited much from the past. Our knowledge of past history is almost indispensable to our present-day civilization. Think for a moment what would happen if a generation should grow up unacquainted with the vital knowledge the people now possess. One of the great present-day thinkers, Dr. Albert Einstein, speaking to a body of students along these lines said:

"Bear in mind the fact that the wonderful things which you come to know in your schools

Self-Government

It is generally agreed that democracy can be successfully operated only when its structure is built upon a foundation of character capable of self-government — which, among other traits, must definitely combine integrity and a sense of responsibility.

Freedom of Living

Freedom of living is summed up in the Declaration of Independence, which states that every citizen of the United States is entitled to enjoy life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

American Ideals

In our United States we still cherish the ideal of democracy. Here self-effort, together with ability, may win for any citizen, rich or poor, the highest positions of trust and responsibility in the nation.

Has Done For Us

are the products of many generations and have been accomplished in enthusiastic struggle and with great effort in all countries of the earth. All this is now laid in your hands as your inheritance to the end that you may receive, honor, and advance it, and some day faithfully convey it to your posterity. Thus we mortals are immortal in that we work together in never-ending achievement. If you will constantly bear this in mind, you will find a meaning in life and effort, and will attain the right attitude toward other people and other times."

Dedicated to Those Who

Cherish Democracy

This year, we, the senior class of '43, unlike others, dedicate our issue of "Seneca" to a group of people instead of just one — to the teachers and fellow students of Penn High School who have answered their country's call to arms. These men (for they are all men now) of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and the Merchant Marine are not forgotten; they are present, alive and vivid in our memories and hearts. We are bound to them by more than material things — those intangible ones of faith, youthful memories, and our high school days together. The boy who sat beside us in chemistry class or the teacher whose advice and understanding were so very important to us, may be in North Africa, Guadalcanal, or the Solomons giving his life for us. He's fighting so that others can share the education we have been so fortunate to attain. To these men, who are giving so much, we proudly dedicate this book, in the hope that it will make us more conscious of what they are fighting for.

Self Government

Democracy — that is, government of, by, and for the people — has been operating in its present form in America for about one hundred fifty years. Naturally many things have occurred which were far from democratic, but it has been a noble development, resulting in a splendid type of life for millions who have found homes in this country. Under our system of self-government rapid progress has been made in many fields of human endeavor.

Administration

On the Home Front

With great foresight our supervising principal, Mr. Fred E. Haines, has served Penn Township for seven years. The students of Penn High School will long remember him as a skillful organizer, a wise counselor, and an understanding friend.

Mr. Norman F. Hoelzle, principal of Penn High, has a huge task in overseeing various details, giving important announcements, enforcing regulations, and planning the activities of the students.

Mr. Joseph E. Wherry, as assistant principal, assists with duties in connection with the daily routine. Regarding his work at Penn High he stated, "My years at Penn High have been pleasant even though the times have been perplexing and troubled. I extend the best of luck to those leaving high school for either the armed service or service on the home front."

Can We Ever Forget ?

FRESHMAN YEAR — 1940 — September 7 — the proud and possessive feeling at sight of "dear old high" . . . the swift ebb of self-confidence once in the puzzling corridors among wiselooking upperclassmen . . . furtive peeks behind doors for classroom numbers . . . hall marathons between classes . . . hot soup cradled in one's lap at the "peaceful" lunch hour . . . ear-splitting scalp yells at football games . . . crisp, tangy days with our red and gold band marching down the field . . . orgies of jitterbugging . . . Open House . . . beaming parents . . . the amazing realization that summer vacation had begun.

SOPHOMORE YEAR — 1941 — Fresh and sprightly from summer activities . . . slightly overbearing toward the unfortunate freshman . . . "Who's Yahooty?" driving us frantic with curiosity . . . the unforgettable "Sailors' Hornpipe" from the chorus' "H. M. S. Pinafore" . . . "Sub-debbese" chatter all the vogue . . . current pep talk: "Slip your dilly into the old meat-grinder and get set for a siege of shineracking at that genial rat-race tomorrow night . . . ! ! ! panorama by band, chorus, and orchestra . . . a surge of interest in vacation plans . . . from "sophs" to juniors were we.

JUNIOR YEAR — 1942 — We, the new "backbone of the school," firmly resolving to establish a good and long-remembered reputation . . . the "Fall Fiesta" . . . "The Mikado" — fascinating oriental operetta by the chorus . . . the annual Wilkinsburg-Penn game . . . rivalry-inspired cheering . . . homecoming dance to "Ye Olde Juke Box" . . . dirty saddle shoes, baggy sweaters, pork pie . . . production "Once and For All," our junior play . . . The Junior-Senior Reception bringing the departure of the seniors and our difficult task of filling their shoes in 1943.

SENIOR YEAR — 1943 — Seniors — us ! . . . unbelievable, but true . . . how difficult to express that feeling of finality . . . of everything happening for the last time . . . our first dance, the "Harvest Moon" filling the class coffers . . . our last pep meeting and football game . . . magazine sales creating a record . . . November 20, our senior play, "Sky Road" — to senior prom — precious with memories but sad with thoughts of parting . . . the Junior-Senior Reception, our last social function . . . Senior Class Night with fond pennings from friends in each "Seneca" . . . Baccalaureate — that solemn reminder that we would have to leave this secure little world to seek our various fortunes . . . Commencement night . . . tears . . . congratulations . . . gifts . . . the sudden empty feeling that it was all over . . . another four years will never contain the same emotions, friendships, and experiences, but the memory of these four years will remain with us forever.

— Ursula Halloran.

SENECA—Unrationed Memories

Let's spy on a few of our Seneca Staff members at work. First, let's scout around and find the editor-in-chief. There she goes into room 208. A peek through the window reveals a small group around Mr. Crane's desk. I wonder what they're doing! Mr. Crane is mounting pictures with the able suggestions of Miss Atkinson, Mary Jane Day, and Louis Schmidt. There's Miss Stoehr carefully correcting our multitudinous grammatical errors.

We shouldn't tarry too long in one place, however. Suppose we look in room 214, the workshop of our feature editor, A. K. Zierdt. As usual she's here, but not alone. Dolly Larson, whose work as publicity editor is finished, helps A. K. decide whether the word handsome or comely is the better one to use.

One more step and we say "hello" to the head typist, Rita Klinefelter. There goes the buzzer. Madly we dash for the 3:20 bus.

FIRST ROW — V. Bruwelheide, E. Isherwood, L. Brady, D. Hill, M. J. Day, R. Ward, A. K. Zierdt, M. L. Stephens, L. Gadson.

SECOND ROW — M. Arnone, L. Mason, E. Stotler, H. Wrabley, E. Cherok, D. Larson, V. Toy, E. Dailey, Miss Stoehr.

THIRD ROW — Mr. Crane, M. Price, J. Plank, L. Schmidt, F. Stewart, R. Sheaffer, R. Baker, W. Goodworth, R. Young, Miss Atkinson, W. Sims.

"Today's the deadline! — Galleys are here! — Call the printer — we just got a scoop!"

Excitement reigns among the Penn Points staff during the week before the paper comes out. Editors tack up the assignments and soon budding journalists are seen whizzing through the halls interviewing teachers, sketching interesting personalities, and collecting the latest news tidbits. That somber pencil-pusher at last night's game was covering next issue's sports.

Assignments are turned in, and the editors' fun begins. Proofreading, copyreading, rewriting, checking — all the tedious things that an average reader does not realize. Typists tear their hair in the mad rush of getting typed copy to the printer. Galley shoots back to the editors and the "dummy," crude facsimiles of the paper, is formed. Each article is carefully "double-checked" and placed on the page dummy according to news value, length, balance, and style.

The dummy is sent to the printer and the page-proofs — actual proofs of the finished product — are checked, the last step of the work. Penn Points is printed and distributed.

On the day of the issue there is no member of the staff who does not feel a thrill of pride at sight of that finished product. There is a glamour to journalism that nothing else can equal — the creation of an historical record — a source of information and amusement. What more thanks is needed than to see the smile of a student reading an anecdote on the feature page, the proud light on the face of the person whose name is in the paper? These are the rewards — no more are needed.

Post-War Planners—Thespians

Girl Reserves

To each member of the Girl Reserves the familiar words of their code have meaning. The club aims for graciousness, good judgment, religion, knowledge, sincerity, loyalty, and dependability. Under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Reed the club has held several social events, including a winter dance, "Rationed Rhythms."

Hi - Y

Because Mr. Crane, the Hi-Y sponsor, secured a position in a defense plant, Mr. Gibson has assumed his duties.

This club sponsors devotions during the assemblies and collects the contributions for the Goodwill Industry. It has brought to the student body several outstanding speakers.

Its officers are president, Bill Mohn; vice president, Bob Sum; secretary, Fred Stewart; treasurer, Herbert Jackson.

Sub-Deb Club

Miss Massarelli sponsors this club. Here the members learn to use the rules of beauty, charm, poise, and personality. All the girls belong to the National Sub-Deb Federation which aids in leading them in sincere, cheerful living with understanding of etiquette and friendliness.

Cue and Curtain

The Cue and Curtain Club, Penn High's dramatic group, is open to all juniors and seniors. To become a member an applicant composes a poem which must meet the approval of the director and the members. From its membership have come the casts of the many splendid high school plays. The regular social gatherings of the Cue and Curtain will be cherished memories of the persons who have belonged.

"E" For Efficiency Candidates

Student Council

The Student Council both aids and guides our students. They bought educational movies, loaned money to the K-M-E-Ish Club for defense stamps, gave money to the Swing Band for music, provided movies for entertainment, and sponsored the Victory Stamp Stomp. — Our Student Council deserves praise.

Hall Patrol

Under the able leadership of Mr. Manton, the Student Patrol maintains discipline and order throughout the building. With the exceptional co-operation of the student body, traffic disturbances are a thing of the past. The members of the "Gestapo," as it has been jovially nicknamed, are proud of their organization and its work.

Junior Homemakers

The Junior Homemakers formed an honor roll of Penn High's boys in the service. Margaret Salopek served as chairman of the names committee and Mr. Dressing and Mrs. Pfeiffer aided by constructing and lettering the board. Ruth May, president; Anna Mae Kenyon, vice president; Ruth McCurdy, secretary; and Jeanne Furick, treasurer, are the officers who have made the year a successful one — socially and financially.

Library Assistants

Miss Cort, the new librarian, has a staff of twelve assistants. The three upper classes are represented by the girls. They are, as the name implies, assistants in the library.

Some of their specific duties are checking the roll, shelving books, keeping circulation records, and assisting at the desk.

The library subscribes to thirty-five different magazines, two daily and two weekly papers. Thus it becomes the center for much leisure reading as well as being the source for information and extra-credit reading.

Gremlin Chasers, Biologists, Filibusters, Secretaries

Aeronautics Club

Mr. Manton and his aeronautic enthusiasts have formed this new club. There are two divisions — one studies the Morse Code and practices sending messages and the other builds model planes to scale for Army and Navy Air Corps use. Since we are a part of World War II, it is a timely and useful organization.

Nature Club

One of Penn High's most vigorous, alert organizations is the lively Nature Club, headed by Mr. G. C. Clark. This group brought Penn singular prestige when it sponsored such celebrities as Emil Liers, the world's only otter breeder, and Max Gene Nohl, holder of the world's deep-sea diving record. Its numerous activities are led by Bob Sum, president; Selig Harrison, vice president and program chairman; and Lawrence Fountain, secretary-treasurer.

Rostrum Club

Our Rostrum is furthering better public speaking with debates such as these: Resolved that eighteen-year-old men should be drafted; resolved that holes in doughnuts should be rationed. They held a round-table on shortages for assembly, and had a discussion on plans for the post-war world.

K-M-E-Ish Club

Sponsored by Mrs. Reeher, the K-M-E-Ish equips boys and girls with a better knowledge of the business world. Acting as secretaries to teachers, they type, cut stencils, hectograph, and mimeograph. They learn the proper procedure of making personal interviews. In addition to this, they receive practical experience as well-trained secretaries.

Music For Morale

Band

Transportation problems may have interfered with plans for several band concerts this year, but its new leader, Mr. Williams, has provided a varied program despite difficulties. 1943 saw the creation of a swing dance band which played at basketball games and Penn High dances. Mr. Williams has succeeded exceedingly well in developing Penn High's abundant musical talent.

Orchestra

The orchestra is under the able direction of Mr. Williams. This year they elected a student director, Amerigo Laus, and an assistant student director, Charles Russo. The librarian, Ross Stevens, takes care of the music. The orchestra plays before every assembly and between the acts of the class plays.

Twirlers' Club

The Twirlers' Club is organized to aid ambitious future majorettes and drum majors. The new members are instructed by the experienced majorettes in twirling and mastering the correct military marching techniques. Each member buys his own baton and practices energetically every spare minute. No wonder we have such excellent majorettes!

Chorus

Penn High's chorus has presented many an organization with sweet tunes. Their Christmas candlelight service and their presentations at upper and lower class assemblies have been greatly appreciated. They have entertained P. T. A. groups and church organizations. The Penn High School Chorus is under the splendid supervision of Mrs. Jeffrey.

Art Club

The art club, aside from developing the talent of unusually good artists, plays a vital part in our dramatic productions. Their realistic scenery gives the right atmosphere for our dramas. Mrs. Pfeiffer sponsors the club and exhibits the work of the future artists.

Every time there is a stage production, a party, or a dance, you can be certain that the stage crew had some part in it. The members are boys from the shop who, under Mr. Dressing's able supervision, wield hammers and saws in their many and varied tasks.

American Ideals

From the beginning of our nation the American ideal has been that of democracy. Democracy is a prize which has been won slowly by a long struggle inspired by the ideals of liberty and justice.

FOOTBALL

Ironmen Have Great Season Despite Losses

The season opened with six veterans of last year's varsity on the starting roster — Kristolich, Fiala, Golobish, Schiedenhelm, Alcorn, and Bruno. Three new teams also appeared on Penn's schedule— Shadyside Academy, Taylor Allderdice, and Plum.

Although Penn only won three out of its nine games, Wilkinsburg and Turtle Creek were the only opponents to score more than one touchdown against our squad. Statistics show that Penn tallied thirty-three points more than the opponents in the final totals. We also scored the most points this season than any other on our closest rival, Wilkinsburg.

The first game played was at Latrobe on September 12. The Indians were scrapping — they fought till the final gun with Penn High's indomitable spirit, but lost by a score of 9-6. The Braves dropped their first home game to the Blue and Gold from Westinghouse 8-0. In the next game with Oakmont, always an exciting game, the Red and Gold was defeated by a score of 6-0 after a gallant exhibition.

On October 3 a powerful squad from Turtle Creek was host to Penn, outplaying and defeating Penn 13-0.

Disgusted with four straight defeats, Penn finally reached deep into her bag of tricks and pulled out a 21-0 victory over a highly-praised Shadyside Academy team. The Braves took to the air with the "Bruno to Kristolich" and "Bruno to Petallos" combinations clicking continuously.

October 17 brought the Indians into conflict with its most ardent competitor, Wilkinsburg. The Tigers, having the enviable record of being undefeated, were victorious, conquering Penn 26-14. These were the most points Penn has ever scored in a game against Wilkinsburg.

The Taylor Allderdice game of October 24 was the first game on Penn soil when no first downs were made by the opposition. The Indians outplayed Allderdice to a 20-0 victory. On October 31 the Red and Gold was subdued by Vandergrift 6-0 in a hard-fought game all the way.

The Plum game of November 7 really shattered all precedent. Never before had a Penn team scored a margin of 40 points over its opponent on the home soil. Never before had a Penn back scored four touchdowns in one game. Bruno's 84-yard run climaxed a season of ball-toting unequalled in Penn's football history.

"A Tough-luck Season"

A new W. P. I. A. L. ruling placed Penn in entirely different basketball competition this season. For the past three years the basketeers have been members of Section 7 which included Wilkinsburg, Turtle Creek, Swissvale, Rankin, Braddock, and Scott. The Indians were placed in Section 19 against "B" teams, the former being an "A" rating. Penn's opponents in Section 19 are Oakmont, East Deer, Verona, and Plum. This setup was advantageous to Penn for two reasons: It greatly facilitates transportation during the war, and natural rivalry between Penn and the new opponents made the games more interesting.

The first five games were non-league and every one was lost by Penn. The opener introduced Westinghouse for the first time, who defeated Penn 32-20. Rankin, Westinghouse, Wilkinsburg, and Rankin handed Penn their next four defeats by scores of 38-30, 46-22, 31-23, and 39-32 respectively.

The Braves took revenge by scalping Oakmont 46-35 in the first league tilt, only to lose to Scott 40-31 in a non-league scrap. Penn's basketeers then got down to business and won the next four, three of which were league tilts. East Deer was the first victim, losing 28-24, followed by an easy victory over Verona 41-31. The Braves then humiliated Wilkinsburg, scalping them 34-22 for the defeat handed them earlier in the season by the Tigers. Plum fell 30-24. Then came the deciding game of the year, with Oakmont winning 42-41. In the remaining games Penn conquered East Deer 26-14, only to lose to Verona and Plum 25-21 and 42-28 respectively.

Under the new leadership of Mr. Alcorn, Penn's track team again had a very successful season, winning all five of its meets and scoring 428 points to the opponents' 176 points. Besides going undefeated in dual competition, Penn won the triangular meet with Turtle Creek and Sewickley. Also Coach Alcorn's tracksters took first place in the medley relay at the W. P. I. A. L. indoor meet and in the mile relay at the Tri-State meet and the Connellsville relays. The medley relay team is composed of Peteet, Newton, Young, and Wheeler, while the mile relay team is composed of Peteet, Altenberger, Wheeler, and Young. This mile relay team won the W. P. I. A. L. mile relay championship at the Pitt Stadium, for which they received a magnificent plaque. As a result of this, the mile relay team traveled to Penn State where they placed fifth at the State championships. Here they set a new record for our mile relay, which is 3 minutes and 33 seconds. High scorer for the season was Ed Wheeler with 88½ points.

GOLF

Fourth Consecutive Championship

For the fourth consecutive year Penn High's golf squad has captured the W. P. I. A. L. championship. In the last four years they have dropped only three games — one to Turtle Creek in 1940, one to Springdale in 1941, and one to Shadyside last year. Without much doubt the golf squad is Penn's most successful athletic team.

Composing last year's squad were two veterans and three newcomers. Jim Snyder, lead-off man, has been on all four championship squads, and Ronald Fowler is a veteran of three seasons. Guy Bosnick and Nick Puskarich, juniors, and Frank Malay, sophomore, terminate the quintet.

In the first game of the season Coach Berg's squad whitewashed New Kensington 15-0. In the remaining games the Indians scalped Springdale 15-0, defeated Shadyside 10½-4½, beat New Kensington 14½-½, tapped Springdale 12-3, and lost the last to Shadyside 10½-4½.

Then came the play-offs with Munhall, Baldwin, and Greensburg. The squad downed Munhall 15-0; they followed with a 12-3 victory over Baldwin, and in the final match trampled Greensburg 12-3.

Cheerleaders

Kippi Yippi Yee, Kippi Yippi Yii — no, it's not a Yank war cry, it's just one of the many cheers this sextet originated. To last year's squad of four girls, two peppy boys were added. Under the supervision of Miss Klinar, Miss Reed, and our newcomer, Mr. Williams, these six cheerleaders have made the pep meetings, football, and basketball games brighter than ever. Three of this vivacious group leave P. H. S. this year and we know it will be hard to replace them and keep "hep to the pep" in the coming years.

G. A. A.

This is a woman's world. With that thought in mind and with physical fitness as its by-word the Girls' Athletic Association has taken great strides this year. Soccer, basketball, volleyball, badminton, track, and hiking were included in the program for the entire school. Active participation in the G. A. A. gave many a distinct advantage in the gym classes. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. E. Klinar Renschigai, Miss E. Reed, and active managers and assistants, interest flourished. The club officers are: President, Elizabeth Stoner; vice president, Dora Hill; secretary, Lois Moersch; treasurer, Mary Berg. There is also an advisory council of managers and assistants.
